KEEP THE KIDNEYS
WELL

Health is Worth Saving, and Some
Norway People Know How to Save It

Many Norway people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help.
Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health—the slightest delay is dangerous. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers. Here is a Norway citizen's recommendation.

"Mrs. G. D. Frost, 6 Tucker St., says:
"At the time I used Doan's Kidney Pills they helped me wonderfully and I take pleasure in recommending them. My back gave me trouble. There seemed to be a deep seated pain across the center of my back. My kidneys didn't act regularly and in other ways showed signs of disorder. As Doan's Kidney Pills had been used in the family with good results,
I thought I would try them and sent to Noyes' Drug Store and got a box. After using them, the trouble left me entirely."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Frost
had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo,

DON C. SEITZ.

The Longfellow Bros. of Hallowell are advertising the sale of strawberry plants. Read ad.

Don't cut down a tree, no matter how small it may be, unless it is absolutely necessary. American forests are rapidly disappearing and it will require many years to produce others in their stead. The excessive cost of lumber is due partly to the scarcity of trees and to the increasing difficulty of marketing those that remain. Foreign governments cultivate their forests as carefully as we do our crops, but we Americans have yet to learn the wisdom of this.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Dunham, the double ring service being used.

To the strains of Lohengrin's bridal chorus played by Marguerite Hol, cousin of the bride, the bride party entered the room.

The best man was Harry Phillips of Rumford and the maid of honor was Sybil Parks of Hartford. The bride wore a pretty gown of white silk crepe-de-chine with a necklace of pearls and carried pink and white carnations.

Miss Holliis was given in to white lace. Following the felicitations, a wedding luncheon was served. Mrs. Frank Oliver and Mrs. Burdell Wright, intimate friends of the bride, assisted in serving.

Following the luncheon, the wedding was very quiet, only the immediate relatives and brothers of the bride and groom, the attendants and Mrs. Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. Wright and son being present.

SWEET CORN PLANTERS POSITION

L. E. McIntire of East Waterford is one of the largest sweet corn planters in this section and takes this position regarding planting sweet corn for this season:

"This is a critical time in the sweet corn industry in Maine. For a great many years I have been interested in the growing of sweet corn for canning. It has been my cash crop. I have also been interested in a corn silage plant. I know the farmers have had a hard season. Some of them have had to face serious losses but you must also remember that the farmers of Maine have also lost money."

Now in my judgment if the sweet corn growers and packers of Maine want to maintain the industry they should come together on a four cent price. Curtail acreage if necessary, but above all, maintain quality. Nothing less will interest me and as much as I would regret to see the industry crippled or stopped, I shall refuse to grow corn for a less price the coming season.

The farmers of Maine have reached a time in their lives when they can no longer carry on their business at a loss."

MY DAYS AND NIGHTS IN THE HOSPITAL

No. 3

Nothing is any more appreciated in a hospital than kind words of sympathy and encouragement. I had read many years ago the proverb, "Cast thy bread upon the waters and thou shalt find it after many days." When connected with the Norway schools, there were many teachers and pupils whom I came to like very much. At one time there were three young ladies, two of whom had been scholars, that I had obtained positions for in the village schools. Three others had been given positions earlier. All were special favorites and have remained so to this day. The three first were very close friends, and this close intimacy and friendship has lasted ever since. Two of them are married and have happy homes. The other is still teaching here, having kept her position for over twenty-five years. She is one of the best primary teachers in Maine. Their names are Mrs. Cora B. Cummings, Mrs. Annie Wingate of Hallowell and Miss Gertrude Gardner. The other three mentioned are Miss Helen S. Swan, the efficient post mistress here for many years, Miss Elsie A. Favor, one of the very best compositors working in the Oxford Democrat Office at South Paris, and Miss Nellie L. Anderson, who retired from teaching at her own request and lives in Norway with her widowed mother. From them I received many tokens of their interest and sympathy which I shall prize as long as I live.

I was especially pleased one day to receive a splendid bouquet of flowers from Doctor and Mrs. A. W. Easton. The doctor came here from Bridgton and formed a partnership with Dr. Fred E. Drake. For a period he was in the service during the Great World War. No better dentists and no better citizens can be found anywhere. They are among my very best and valued friends.

The Lady Superintendent of the Hospital. I did not see anything of the Lady Superintendent till after my operation, as she was away during the holidays, but after she returned she made short calls to ask how I was getting along. I don't suppose she had anything officially to do with me, but as the ward I was in was on the upper floor happened to have all female patients but me, she doubtless thought she would not pass me by in making her calls. I was very glad to see her pleasant, intelligent face and hear her kind words of greeting. The day I came away she called to bid me good bye and wish me a pleasant journey home. Her assistant while on duty in the ward recently came to say an encouraging word. They both have left a pleasant memory.

I haven't written about my operation yet, and may as well do it here. I had at first been put on a preparation treatment in which I took some medicine, but the principle of it seemed to be the drinking of a tumbler of ice water at least every hour, excepting when asleep, to keep the kidneys well flushed out. I went down hard after a time. After I had been in the hospital two weeks I urged Doctor Mitchell to perform the operation without further delay, saying that I thought I would be in better condition than I was at that time. The long period of preparation had begun to effect my nerves somewhat. Instead of two operations I told him I wanted what was necessary all done at once.

"Very well," said he, "we will do it tomorrow about 10 o'clock." (a. m.) I sent for the boys and they were both with me till the operation commenced. Stretched on a truck I was taken to the operating room. For some reason I had to wait twenty minutes to half an hour or more and I watched the doctor and attendants all dressed in white as they moved about. The look of anxiety on the boys' faces troubled me more than the ordeal I was to go through. I had no fear, and thought if I passed away during the operation without pain it would be well. I realized I could not live without an operation.

When the door was about to shut Dr. Charles Cragin, a former Norway boy, wished me good luck as he went outside. I was given gas and I remember of feeling a loss of consciousness and a star on the tip of each little finger. In no time the one on my right finger vanished then the one on my left went out and I fell into oblivion. After the operation I was raised up to be placed on the truck. My eyes came open, full consciousness returned at once and I was told that the trouble had been a neuralgia and I was all right. I felt no pain, no nausea about the elevator and taken up to my new room, which was to be my quarters for two months.

Clarence E. Rimes
Death occurred at his home, 78 Hamilton Avenue, Haverhill, Mass., March 16. Mr. Rimes lived in Norway for some years in the 80's and moved to the above city in 1891, where he carried on an extensive bakery business for the past 12 years at 84 Main Street.

While here he worked in the Norway Bakery and bought the business of Mr. Pingree and conducted for himself for some time before going to Massachusetts. He married a daughter of Zeph Starboard of West Sumner and leaves a widow and son, John E. Rimes of Haverhill. The deceased was a prominent Odd Fellow, having filled all the offices, and leaves a large circle of friends. He was about 64 years of age.

First Swimmers of Season
The first swimmers for 1921 in Lake Penesseewasaw are John Perrault, Julia Perrault and Percy Fuller. They took their first dip from Crockett Bridge on Saturday April 9. The water was cold but not so cold but what the swim was enjoyed and they plan to go in every day now.

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Ann Brown at Stetson, Mass. Brown is the mother of Mrs. Sara Howe, and is well known in Norway as she has been in town with her daughter for a number of years during the summer months. She had been in feeble health for a number of years, and was over 80 years of age.

Dennis Pike, who spent the greater part of the winter at St. Petersburg, returned home, Saturday.
Mrs. Llewellyn H. Cushman and daughter, Mrs. M. E. Young, at Portland.
Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Drake have opened their house on Pleasant street which has been closed during the winter, the Drakes having had rooms at A. L. Clark's.

A WOMAN'S VOTE

I went today to the old town hall and stood by the window near the wall. My seat was the sill with my feet to brace, I gazed at each familiar face, I voted, too, and stood in line, For I knew they all were friends of mine. Some were passing round their heads, Others told me how to vote. Some were standing round in groups, Some were wearing cow-hide boots. Some would stand a while and grin, Some had a hedge upon their chin. Some were tall and thin and spare, And some had hay chaff in their hair, And women mingled, great and small— Something new in any hall. They gathered there with spirits gay, And voted on town meeting day. Some would shout aloud and cheer, Some would smile from ear to ear, Some would stand there pert and proud, And some looked like a thunder cloud. Some were dressed in colors gay, And they turned out well for a stormy day. The hall was crowded full, you know, I watched them carrying to and fro. They looked so neat as they stood with pride Or moved along with the swelling tide, It broke past records all to smash, It made me think of a subway crash. Excitement reigned to beat the band, The whole thing made a picture grand, But conversation that I heard Almost seemed to be absurd. They said, as I nearly lost my breath, "We'll run that hayseed guy to death." You may belong to Norway Grange, If you hit the mark, you must get in range, He may be good at getting away, At thrashing pumpkins or pitching hay, He may be sick as sick can be, And carry a red ear to a husking bee. He may be good at blowing his horn, Or swinging a hoe in a field of corn. You may be big and full of pomp, If you're neat as a trout and smooth as a trout, You can't win out on a woman's vote. FREDERICK MARSHALL DAVIS.

Working On The Stone Pile

Making little ones out of big ones is actually easier on clothes than playing the trade of a professional marble player. Freddie wins a spotted agate by careful shot and Father loses his temper when he views the damage.

In the Spring, outfitting a boy ceases to be a duty and becomes a difficult problem that has only one solution—BETTER CLOTHES. They pay in the end what you pay for them in the beginning. Our boys' Suits were made to wear—and they will! We stand back of them.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

FORDSON

The Ford Motor Company have just issued a book called "The Fordson at Work." This book is given free. Call in and get one. If you cannot call, write and we will mail you one without charge. It is not what the Ford Motor Company says about the Fordson Tractor, but what the army of users have to say. This book voices the hardest kind of practical experience. It shows in illustration the Fordson Tractor at actual work along some ninety different lines of activity. It shows in these illustrations the wonderful versatility and utility of the Fordson Tractor. Shows it to be, beyond all question, the one bit of machinery that is a necessity, not only on the farm, but along many lines of commercial business; especially does it show up the Fordson as a valuable servant on the farm. With it the farmer is relieved of the hard work; because he can take advantage of the weather in preparing his seed bed; he can do it at the right time; the same is true when it comes to harvesting. It solves, to a great extent, the problem of scarcity of labor.

With its wonderful, reliable power, it brings to the farm home all the conveniences, in the way of running water in the house, electric lights, operation of the washing machine, churning, separating the cream from the milk; it assumes and takes to itself the drudgery of farm life both in the field and in the house and it is only a matter of a few years until it will be as universal in its service on the farm as is the farmer himself. It will become a part of farm life; a beneficial part; a profitable part. Get order in for there's a rush coming.

Why We Are Strong for Willard

We've seen a lot of batteries, but never another like the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery.

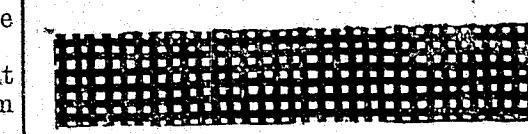

Threaded Rubber insulates the plates instead of separating them the way wood separators do.

No carbonizing, puncturing, checking or cracking, because Threaded Rubber Insulation retains all the valuable insulating qualities of rubber and is not affected by acid.

That's one reason why we're strong for Willard Threaded Rubber Batteries.

The Lure of BIRTH STONES
APRIL
It is storied that the God of the Mines called his courtiers to bring him all known gems. He found them to be of all colors and tints and varying hardnesses, such as the ruby, emerald, sapphire. He took one of each, he crushed them; he compounded them; and said, "Let this be a gem that will combine the beauty of all; yet it must be pure, and it must be invincible." He spoke; and lo! the evolution of the diamond; bringing to the April-born the virtues of Sir Galahad, the while preserving peace and tranquility.

SPRING DEBILITY

Loss of Appetite, That Tired Feeling and Sometimes Eruptions. Thousands take Hood's Sarsaparilla as a spring medicine for that tired feeling, nervous weakness, impure blood and say it makes them feel better, eat and sleep better, and "makes food taste good." Spring debility is a condition in which it is especially hard to combat disease germs, which invade the system here, there and everywhere. The white blood corpuscles, sometimes called "the little soldiers in the blood," because it is their duty to fight disease germs, are too weak to do good service. Hood's Sarsaparilla strengthens the "little soldiers" and enables them to repel germs of grip, influenza, fevers and other ailments; relieves catarrh and rheumatism. It has given satisfaction to three generations. Get it today, and for a laxative take Hood's Pills.

GOD'S COUNTRY

There's a place just beyond the mountains
At the end of the trail northwest,
That God must have created for himself,
And with his blessings blest.
There's a rolling carpet of green,
A stream winding through the dell,
Where weeping, yellow shade
The shy little Scotch bluebells.
On the margin of the field below,
Thall pines form a curtain dark
That shades one to the other.
The call of the owl and fox's bark.
He welcomed all the beasts of the forest,
The chipmunk, bear and deer,
He called to the birds of the field
And planted flowers here.
He made the woodland deep and dark
And drew the trees up straight and tall
Beneath the towering mountains,
Against the granite walls.
He chipped a grove in the hanging ledge
And the sparkling waters fell
From the dizzy height of the shattering wall
To the peaceful depths of the dell.
He drew a ray from the golden sun
To the valley down below,
To warm the rocks and shady nooks,
And to make the flowers grow.
He told the breeze to sigh quite low
That the clouds might easily stop
And not be torn by the scrubby trees
On the rugged mountain top.
He said the birds might sing all day
As they built their nests on high
And asked the brook to accompany them
As it gently rippled by.
A breeze bearing dreams from afar
Stirs the air saturated with love
And rustles the leaves only once,
As silence drops from above.
When the sun had heated from gold to red
And passed on its westward way,
He threw in a paint pot of colors
And called it a perfect day.
STANLEY FOSS BARTLETT.

TO MY BABY

O, baby boy with eyes of blue
And rosy face so sweet,
I love thee from thine hair of gold
Down to thy dimpled feet.
Thy childish prattle irks me not,
I hearken for thy voice;
And pity for those home I feel
That hear no "baby noise."
Thy playthings strew my clean swept floor,
Thy glasses and doors thy grin;
But what are "shine" and spotted floors
And home, heart of him?
So give me still my baby boy
With playthings, dirt and noise,
For this old world would empty be
Without our girls and boys.
What matter though I stay at home
And toil from morn 'til night,
In vain effort to give you a pair of shoes?
And windows shining bright?
What matter that I stay indoors
And work while the roses bloom,
Perchance there are no "baby boys"
Within their wellkept home!
So stay my babe of azure eyes
And thatch of sunny hair;
I choose thy "care," thy "toys" and "cries"
To a tiny vacant chair.
Stay on my Prince (of small renown)
With lips like cherries sweet!
I love thee from thine "golden crown"
Down to thy tiny feet.
LILLIAN (FROST) ADAMS.

ANOTHER PAPER SUSPENDED

"The Groveton Advertiser has decided there is no money in publishing a weekly newspaper and has suspended. The one thing that interested him that Mr. Rice had courage to publish a paper as long as he did. There is no industry in a small community that receives so little support as a weekly newspaper locally, and there is no business of which so much is asked. Would you expect to go into a dry goods store, a grocery store, a boot and shoe store and ask them to give you a pair of shoes? Think of numerous times you expect a publisher to say there will be a supper, a dance, a social and other things from which a financial benefit is expected but of course the publisher is to do it for nothing—not even the courtesy of a complimentary ticket. The Reporter is sorry to learn of these weekly newspaper suspensions.—North Conway Reporter.

Typewriting Contest

The records of the New England School Championship Typewriting Contest held in Boston on April 4, list 87 pupils who wrote at rates of speed varying from 463 to 1310 gross words, made from 1 to 101 errors, and received pupils who completed made so many errors that they were excluded from the list.

This year the entries were made in two classes—private and public schools. The school making the highest net speed received the cup to hold for one year; the five pupils in both classes winning the first places, received honor medals.

Of the 67 competing, 29 were entered from public high schools in Massachusetts and Connecticut. On this list the three pupils entered from Norway High School won 5th, 7th and 10th places. Their records are as follows:

Royal Mch., Richard Perkins, gross 837; errors, 7; pen., 70; net words, 767; net per min., 51.
Underwood Mch., Mabel Perry, gross 712; errors, 1; pen., 10; net words, 702; net per min., 47.
Royal Mch., L. Verna Kimball, gross, 722; errors, 13; pen., 130; net words, 692; net per min., 39.

The 1st, 2nd, and 4th medals in this class were awarded to LaSalle High School, Waltham, Mass., the 4th to Lyman High School, Wallingford, Ct.; and the 5th to Richard Perkins, Norway High School, Norway, Me.

On the complete list Norway High School stands 20th, 29th, and 36th. By writing the 15 minutes with only one error, Miss Perry made the best record for accuracy. After traveling some two miles along this ridge, which was lined with guns and monuments, the road turned up Little Round Top. Here at the summit behind a breastwork of stone and on the sheltered side the party halted for observation and visit to the lunch basket. What a wonderful country in itself, and how wonderfully historical! As far as the eye could see stretched to the North and West were miles of rich farming country, with its green fields of winter wheat, while beyond this to the West the Blue Ridge Mountains were discernible. In front was "Devil's Den," the scene of terrific fighting, and within a stone's throw mounted on an immense boulder stood the statue of the intrepid General Warren, the hero of Little Round Top.

Passing down Little Round Top, and around the base of Great Round Top the party passed to Seminary Ridge, and down Confederate Avenue. This section was held by the Confederate army of northern Virginia, and was commanded by the famous General Robert E. Lee. The guns here all pointed in the direction of Cemetery Ridge and Round Top. How impressive, but quiet now! It was here two miles away from the Union lines that Pickett's men started the charge, and all along the way were mowed down mercilessly by the Union guns.

Then back to the Eastern end of the long and curved battle line at Culp's Hill the party sped, and up its rugged slopes to the top it went. From the observation tower there a bird's eye view of the entire battlefield, and surrounding country was obtained. The Seminary Ridge and Tannetown roads, and the Baltimore Pike appeared like long silver threads centering in the town of Gettysburg.

And so the day ended as through the evening shadows the little party rolled back over perfect and dustless roads, across the Mason and Dixon Line; "For it was home again and home again" with hearts re-filled with love for country, and reverence for its illustrious saviors.

Melvin H. Pingree, Ruxton, Baltimore Co., Maryland, April 7, 1921.

PLAIN STATEMENT OF FACTS

Isn't it too bad that among the rising generation there are so very few who really have the desire to pay the price for success in any venture? Store keepers in this town tell me that it is getting almost impossible to hire an American boy to do any work. They tell me that they have to get out and get French boys, boys who were brought up in big families where work is a necessity, and where the children get at least a few early lessons in self-reliance. Here in the office we have two French girls out in the work room. We have tried others, but it's too often the same old story.

Printing is real work, and it's so hard to make young people see that through work, and only through work, can anything be accomplished. I had one girl from a recent graduating class from our high school. She came from a very respectable but not a rich family, living a little out in the country, and we employed her here with high hopes that she was going to make good. But she got her hands dirty setting type, and she didn't like it, and very soon decided that the printing office was not the place for her.

And then she went into an office in a shoe shop, and stayed a little while. I don't know why she left there. Possibly because of the odor of the leather, or it might have been unpleasant to her old-fashioned nerves. Then she went into a store here in town, a store so cold that no one in it has had warm feet excepting in the hot summer months for the past twenty-five years, a store without any modern conveniences, heated by a coal stove which was too often cold. Now she has left there.

Her father told me he wished she had stuck to our office, but what's the use? She had been ruled by the High school. Her mind had been filled up with the high school training that she was not prepared to go out and work for a living but was all ready to "accept a position."

I only mention this one fact as an illustration of thousands of others all over the state. You can't blame the children, either, because they haven't been given a life long enough to really know what they are about the game. But I do blame the parents, and I wish often that there was a little of the good old fashioned discipline left in a few of our families.

When you and I were boys, I'll bet our homes were ruled by the God of monarchy, and we ought to thank God that we had mothers and fathers who were Kings and Queens, and who knew what was right and best for their subjects, and who saw that their edicts were carried out.—Transcript Journal, Franklin, N. A VISIT TO GETTYSBURG

Up the Reisterstown road for thirty miles from Baltimore to Westminster, Maryland, and thence to Gettysburg, Pa., some twenty miles farther on, over perfect concrete and macadam, and through a wonderful farming country, our visitors from Denmark and South Brighton were speeded by auto on a beautiful April day. Mrs. Edwin Pingree and granddaughter, Edith Woodward, with her oldest son Melvin, and granddaughter Hope Pingree of Baltimore after a two and a half hours journey stood facing innumerable monuments of the heroic and honored dead of over half a century. One of these at the base of Culp's Hill, plainly visible from the Baltimore Pike, and among the first to be seen on approaching the battlefield, was that of the Tenth Maine Regiment. But that was not the only reminder of the heroism and valor of the boys from the old Pine Tree State, and their illustrious leader General O. O. Howard, in that titanic struggle, and decisive battle of the civil war.

From the National Cemetery where thousands of honored dead lie buried, past the spot immortalized by Lincoln in his Gettysburg address, they saw stretched before them miles of beautiful rolling, and in part mountainous country, dotted everywhere with monuments, tablets, and statuary. The drive along cemetery ridge, past the "Bloody Angle" was of particular interest, for it was here that the confederate general Pickett made his famous charge, and almost succeeded in breaking the line. After traveling some two miles along this ridge, which was lined with guns and monuments, the road turned up Little Round Top. Here at the summit behind a breastwork of stone and on the sheltered side the party halted for observation and visit to the lunch basket. What a wonderful country in itself, and how wonderfully historical! As far as the eye could see stretched to the North and West were miles of rich farming country, with its green fields of winter wheat, while beyond this to the West the Blue Ridge Mountains were discernible. In front was "Devil's Den," the scene of terrific fighting, and within a stone's throw mounted on an immense boulder stood the statue of the intrepid General Warren, the hero of Little Round Top.

Passing down Little Round Top, and around the base of Great Round Top the party passed to Seminary Ridge, and down Confederate Avenue. This section was held by the Confederate army of northern Virginia, and was commanded by the famous General Robert E. Lee. The guns here all pointed in the direction of Cemetery Ridge and Round Top. How impressive, but quiet now! It was here two miles away from the Union lines that Pickett's men started the charge, and all along the way were mowed down mercilessly by the Union guns.

Then back to the Eastern end of the long and curved battle line at Culp's Hill the party sped, and up its rugged slopes to the top it went. From the observation tower there a bird's eye view of the entire battlefield, and surrounding country was obtained. The Seminary Ridge and Tannetown roads, and the Baltimore Pike appeared like long silver threads centering in the town of Gettysburg.

And so the day ended as through the evening shadows the little party rolled back over perfect and dustless roads, across the Mason and Dixon Line; "For it was home again and home again" with hearts re-filled with love for country, and reverence for its illustrious saviors.

Melvin H. Pingree, Ruxton, Baltimore Co., Maryland, April 7, 1921.

Isn't it too bad that among the rising generation there are so very few who really have the desire to pay the price for success in any venture? Store keepers in this town tell me that it is getting almost impossible to hire an American boy to do any work. They tell me that they have to get out and get French boys, boys who were brought up in big families where work is a necessity, and where the children get at least a few early lessons in self-reliance. Here in the office we have two French girls out in the work room. We have tried others, but it's too often the same old story.

Printing is real work, and it's so hard to make young people see that through work, and only through work, can anything be accomplished. I had one girl from a recent graduating class from our high school. She came from a very respectable but not a rich family, living a little out in the country, and we employed her here with high hopes that she was going to make good. But she got her hands dirty setting type, and she didn't like it, and very soon decided that the printing office was not the place for her.

And then she went into an office in a shoe shop, and stayed a little while. I don't know why she left there. Possibly because of the odor of the leather, or it might have been unpleasant to her old-fashioned nerves. Then she went into a store here in town, a store so cold that no one in it has had warm feet excepting in the hot summer months for the past twenty-five years, a store without any modern conveniences, heated by a coal stove which was too often cold. Now she has left there.

Her father told me he wished she had stuck to our office, but what's the use? She had been ruled by the High school. Her mind had been filled up with the high school training that she was not prepared to go out and work for a living but was all ready to "accept a position."

I only mention this one fact as an illustration of thousands of others all over the state. You can't blame the children, either, because they haven't been given a life long enough to really know what they are about the game. But I do blame the parents, and I wish often that there was a little of the good old fashioned discipline left in a few of our families.

When you and I were boys, I'll bet our homes were ruled by the God of monarchy, and we ought to thank God that we had mothers and fathers who were Kings and Queens, and who knew what was right and best for their subjects, and who saw that their edicts were carried out.—Transcript Journal, Franklin, N. H.

Middleburg Man Says Tanlac Almost Made Brand New Man of Him

"If ever a medicine made a new man out of a fellow, Tanlac has done that very thing for me," said Ben Dupray, who lives at Middleburg, Vt. "Two years ago while living in New Haven, Vt., I had the 'flu' and it came mighty near laying me out altogether. After I got up out of bed I was so weak that I wasn't able to go to work for several months. My stomach, which had been bothering me for years, got worse and it seemed that I couldn't eat a thing but what I would bloat up with gas and there was an awful pressure against my heart that caused it to beat at a terrific rate and nearly cut off my breath. "My back ached too, and my nerves kept me restless all the time. I was constipated and wasn't able to sleep at all hardly. That pulled me down considerably and I began to fall off in weight. "I was getting worse every day when a friend of mine advised me to try Tanlac. Since taking it, my stomach and nerves don't bother me any more and I am not constipated now. I eat anything I please and have picked up ten pounds in weight. I sleep like a top and don't believe I was ever in better health before."

Heard What Another Woman Said

Mrs. Margaret Bonniere of Murray Street, St. John, N. B., writes: "I heard a lady saying she bought a bottle of Dr. True's Elixir for her children, and it was splendid. I got a bottle and I think it is great." The laxative mentioned above is Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. It is very pleasant to take; children like it, and it is mild in action. No harmful drugs.

It is surprising to know the number of youngsters and even grown-ups who suffer from worms but don't realize it. Every one needs a good laxative. Common symptoms of Worms: Offensive breath, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, eyes heavy and dull, itching of the nose, grinding of the teeth, red points on the tongue, slow fever. Adv.

Carter, the Magician

He's coming to Concert Hall, April 21, under the auspices of the Norway Universalist Society. He is a star. Clubs, Y. M. C. A.'s, Y. W. C. A.'s, churches, prominent men and big daily newspapers all testify to his remarkable skill. Young and old ought to be present. "One of the most refined, mystifying and humorous evenings we have had." "You certainly gave great satisfaction the last time you were with us." "One wonders at your marvelous skill and dexterity." "As a magician, a sleight of hand expert, he is to my mind without an equal. Clean, immensely interesting and clever." So read scores of references. With him also appear Evelyn Wight of South Paris in Scottish folk lore dances in costume.

E. M. Thomas and family have returned to their home on Winter Street, after spending the winter with their daughter, Mrs. Wilbur Downing and husband, who live in the Dr. Staples house.

Milletville

The maple sap season seems to be about over. Sap does not run much now and very people are gathering in their buckets.

Lindsay Morse has hired out for the season with Rust Jackson.

School commenced in Milletville, Monday, April 11, with Verna M. West-leigh as teacher. She boards at home and drives to and from school with her faithful horse, Soldier, who conveyed her safely to and from high school at Norway each term for two years until her graduation last year, June, '20.

Mrs. H. M. Jackson took over three hundred R. I. chicks from her incubators last week. She has recently had a large brooder house built and installed a coal heating brooder, which she likes very much. Mrs. Jackson breeds nothing but pure blooded Single Comb R. I. Red hens, and has been in the business several years. This spring she is a very busy woman running her incubators and putting out orders for eggs for hatching which are in such demand that Mrs. Jackson intends to increase her flock and have a larger hen house built for her pullets of this year's raising. All of her hens and pullets are of her careful and special breeding, and the results are nice large hens of rich color, which lay large brown eggs and lots of them. She has had several orders for eggs by the case to be shipped away to fill incubators, and people are so well pleased with results they generally send back for more. Mrs. Jackson's little son Alpheus, is an interested helper with the chickens and hens and is hatching a few chickens with hens for his own special care.

Little Anna Holt is six years of age and walks a mile each day to attend school.

Mr. and Mrs. S. I. Jackson is expected home, the first week in May, from St. Petersburg, Fla.

Otis Holt and son have the new roof completed on the Jackson house and are now working inside.

DENMARK

Dept. President Mass. Ladies' G. A. R. It is always a satisfaction to every city or town to note with pleasure anything that reflects glory or credit on any of its present or former residents. Last week Mrs. Amanda M. Brackett of 48 Abbott St., Lawrence, Mass., was unanimously elected Dept. President of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic at their annual convention in Boston.

Everyone present was delighted to extend felicitations to a lady as capable and who had labored so earnestly for years to uphold the honor of the G. A. R. and to perpetuate its memory. These are two of the most sacred duties imposed upon members of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic.

It is always a pleasure to see the wife of a veteran elected to these high offices, and especially so when they are so well and favorably known as is John Alben Brackett, who was a native of this town, and whom every man, woman and child love and esteem, not because he was one of the first young men to respond when the call of duty was sounded '61-'65 wholly, but Mr. Brackett realized that history would give records of brave battles and glorious victories but he also showed his patriotism by wanting to leave to the coming generation evidence of the fact that Denmark had done her duty and Mr. Brackett was the instigator of having a fine monument with a bronze tablet containing the names of every soldier going from Denmark placed in the center of the town.

His loyalty to his native town has elicited many favorable encomiums, and the many friends in Oxford County extend congratulations to Mrs. Brackett and her husband for this new honor so thoroughly merited and trust they will take much pleasure as they travel over the State teaching patriotism of such a pure nature that will insure a continuance of the peace, prosperity and safety our heroes bought at such a dear price. The perpetuation of these deeds are the best tributes the future years can offer to the memory of its heroes.

Unicorn Dairy Ration

"You can fool a man, but you can't fool his cow!"

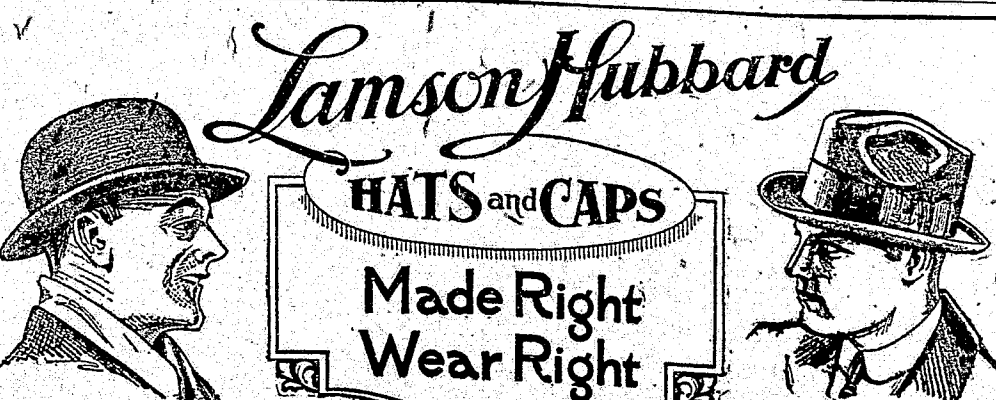

It is not the cost of a feed that is killing the farmer and reducing his profits. The real source of his trouble is his failure to run his cows to full capacity and feeding them right and decently. Cows that could give 40 lbs. of milk are running on a 20-lb. basis, and cows that could make 30 lbs. are running on 15.

The reason dairymen continue to use UNICORN is because they get enough more milk and enough more profit out of it to make it worth their while.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE LIFE

A Dangerous Period Through Which Every Woman Must Pass

Practical Suggestions Given by the Women Whose Letters Follow

Afton, Tenn.—"I want other suffering women to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. During the Change of Life I was in bed for eight months and had two good doctors treating me but they did me no good. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and in a short time I felt better. I had all kinds of bad spells, but they all left me. Now when I feel weak and nervous I take the Vegetable Compound and it always does me good. I wish all women would try it during the Change of Life for I know it will do them good. If you think it will induce some one to try the Vegetable Compound you may publish this letter."—Mrs. A. KELLER, Afton, Tenn.

Mrs. Mary Lister of Adrian, Mich., adds her testimony to the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

to carry women safely through the Change of Life. She says:

"It is with pleasure that I write to you thanking you for what your wonderful medicine has done for me. I was passing through the Change of Life and had a displacement and weakness so that I could not stand on my feet and other annoying symptoms. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the first bottle helped me, so I got more. It cured me and I am now doing my housework. Your medicine is certainly woman's friend and you may use this testimonial as you choose."—Mrs. MARY LISTER, 608 Frank Street, Adrian, Mich.

It is said that middle age is the most trying period in a woman's life, and owing to modern methods of living not one woman in a thousand passes through this perfectly natural change without experiencing very annoying symptoms.

Those smothering spells, the dreadful hot flashes that send the blood rushing to the head until it seems as though it would burst, and the faint feeling that follows, as if the heart were going to stop, those sinking or dizzy spells are all symptoms of a nervous condition, and indicate the need for a special medicine.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a root and herb medicine especially adapted to act upon the feminine system. It acts in such a manner as to build up the weakened nervous system and enables a woman to pass this trying period with the least possible annoying symptoms.

Women everywhere should remember that most of the commoner ailments of women are not the surgical ones—they are not caused by serious displacements or growths, although the symptoms may be the same, and that is why so many apparently serious ailments readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it acts as a natural restorative and often prevents serious troubles.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.
